MOSHIACH: PERSON, TEACHER, AND KING

ב"ה

PROPHECY

*The king who will arise from David's descendants will be . . . a great prophet, close to the level of Moses, our teacher. Therefore, he will teach the entire nation and instruct them in the path of G-d.
(Mishneh Torah, hil. Teshuvah (9:9))*

Moshiach will be a great prophet. Prophecy has an advantage over understanding because a prophet directly experiences G-dliness. Although understanding lets us grasp abstract ideas, more so than one can perceive, seeing something affects us in a deeper way which no amount of understanding can replace. In the time of Moshiach, even young children will achieve prophecy similar to the level of Moshe. Moshiach will enable everyone to see and experience G-dliness, which is something that everyone, including children, can appreciate.

Even now, we can approach this level. Whenever we learn something, we must seek to experience it in our daily lives. This may not be as spiritually abstract or elevated as the esoteric knowledge itself, but its impact runs much deeper.
