GREETING THE KING

*The month of Elul can be compared to a king on his way to the city. All the inhabitants of the city go out and greet the king in the field. There, the people can approach the king, and he greets them all with a friendly countenance.
(See Likkutei Torah IV, Ri'ei, 32b.)*

In the month of Elul, the King is in the field. The field refers to exile, where we work and labor over the course of its duration. G-d desires our work, and, as we face our daily struggles and challenges, G-d stands with us. Studying enables us to understand and envision G-d standing with us, helping us, and deriving tremendous satisfaction from our work.
